More than 2,000 California junior and senior high school students are scheduled to meet at UCSD March 21 for the annual spring conference of the California Scholarship Federation.

HOW ABOUT THAT

By WILFRID DELLQUEST

The shamrock is dancing and singing and the joy of living; it is laughter and tears, and the outcry of the heart.

THE IRISH WERE HERE: On the 17th of March the Irish in San Diego and their friends will be proudly wearing the green. When I was a wee nub of a lad my grandmother, who was Irish, used to tell me how the Irish helped to build America. She told the story of St. Brendan, from Clonfert in Ireland, who sailed west in the sixth century and discovered America. It may be a legend, but the old Norse writings call-DELLQUEST America "Erand-it-Mikla," which means Greater Ireland. And there was Bill Galway, the Irish sailor who came over with Columbus on the Santa Maria in 1492. Oh yes, the Irish were here from the beginning. They've been here ever since, active in building America and in shaping America's fulfillment. They came because they were hungry for freedom and an Irishman without freedom is never at peace.

The Irish were breathing down the stern of the Mayflower, for only a year later, in 1621, the first Irish colony was founded where the city of Newport News, Va., now stands. And don't forget that John (Why-don't-you speak - for - yourself) Alden married a lass named Priscilla Mullins. The boys in old Virginia called her Prissy Mullins. George Washington always celebrated St. Patrick's Day and used Irish passwords and countersigns for his army in honor of the occasion. And well he might, for there were a million Irishmen in the colonies in 1776. When Washington crossed the Delaware, two Irishmen, Dan McConkey and Pat Colvin, ferried him through the ice. When he died, three McCarthys, his own cousins, helped carry him to his grave.

senior highs will be represented at the convention.

She listed the delegations' student leaders as Gus Hawkins, La Jolla High School; Lynn Shoen, Kearny High School; Bryant Stolp, Point Loma High School; Carol Asada, Clairemont High School; Melissa La Caze, Madison High School, and Lynda Unkless, Mission Bay High School.

THEME OF THE CONFERENCE, Mrs. Fowler said, is "Let There Be a World," and will deal mainly with all areas of conservation.

Keynote address is scheduled to be delivered by Dr. Frank Tysen, professor of urban planning at the University of Southern California. His speech will lead off the day's activities, Mrs. Fowler said, at 8:45 a.m. in the UCSD gym.

After Dr. Tysen's address, Mrs. Fowler explained, the students will attend three discussion groups of the 39 sessions being offered.

Among the discussion leaders in the conservation workshops scheduled are UCSD oceanographer and folk singer Sam Hinton; Dr. James M. Dolan, mamologist with the San Diego Zoo; State Sen. James R. Mills; City Councilman Floyd Morrow; USD political scientist Dr. Gilbert Odo; Revelle College provost Dr. Paul Saltman, Dr. Harold Urey, Nobel Prize laureate and UCSD chemistry professor; and Dr. Robert Young, physicist and consultant to the Naval Undersea Research and Development Center on Point Loma.

AWAY FROM THE MAIN theme of conservation, Mrs. Fowler said discussion groups on minority studies and prob-

Voter rush to register anticipated

Deadline for registration for the June 2 primary election is April 9 and the county Registrar of Voters office is preparing for a rush of new residents wanting to register.

Registration tables staffed by deputy registrars will open Tuesday at shopping centers and other public places with high levels of pedestrian traffic, officials said.

A listing of registration sites will not be available until next week.

Residents may also register at the office of the Registrar of Voters, 5555 Overland Dr., Kearny Mesa; the County Administration Building lobby, 1600 Pacific Highway; the county Courthouse, 220 West Broadway, and in the City Clerk's office, 12th floor of the City Administration Building.

Voter registration requirements include one year residency in the state as of June 1 and 90-day residency in San Diego County as of March 4. Naturalized citizens must have completed naturalization proceedings by March 4 to be eligible to vote in the primary.

A year ago, hardly anyone knew what ecology meant. But now it is becoming an increasingly vital part of daily life. See John Wood's column on Editorial Page.

Silence is big hit

The big thing in the recording industry today, according to Art Buchwald, is silence. Popularity of the new discs is described on Page Two-A.

Midway Community Plan receives City Council OK

By NORMA TROST

City Council Thursday adopted the Midway Community Plan and approved a resolution to amend the city's General Plan to reflect Midway area changes.

The plan includes approximately 850 acres of land generally bounded by State Route 109, Interstate 5, Barnett Avenue and the Peninsula community.

Bill MacFarlane, city property director and chairman of the Midway Community Planning Committee, presented the proposal to councilmen and explained revisions made by the Planning Commission which altered the tentative plan.

Revisions included proposed land uses along Route 109 and the intersection of the proposal. Land owners and businessmen in the area were concerned with possible zone changes which would affect their land, creating non-conforming uses in some areas.

Although the plan suggests rezoning in some areas, no rezoning is accomplished by the adoption of the community plan, Conrad said.

The plan calls for light industrial uses on land adjacent to Route 109 and Interstate 5, residential use in some perimeter areas, commercial and recreational facilities.

500 applaud Barnes at fete

Assemblyman E. Richard Barnes of Point Loma was honored Thursday night at a testimonial dinner attended by more than 500 persons at the Town and Country Convention Center.

Barnes, a Republican, is seeking reelection in the 78th Assembly District.

SPECIAL GUESTS ATTENDING the fete included Assemblyman Tom Hom of the 79th District, State Sen. Jack Schrade, 39th District; Assemblyman John Stull, 80th District, and State Sen. Claire Burgener, 38th District.

State Sen. George Deukmejian, 37th Senatorial District and a candidate for state Attorney General, was also in attendance. He was speaker earlier at a gathering in La Jolla.

Presentations were made by three organizations in tribute to Assemblyman Barnes.

Ned Titlow, representing the business community of Ocean Beach, presented a plaque to the assemblyman citing him for efforts in behalf of the community to bring about installation of Ocean Beach fishing pier and the naming of Ocean Beach Freeway. The plaque also commended Barnes for work in the field of seashore erosion control.

Other presentations were made by Ken Joseph, state president of a peace officers organization, and the California Real Estate Association. Speaker of the evening was Rus Walton, Gov. Reagan's secretary for program development.

His topic was "The Spirit of the 70's." He urged Californians and Americans to return again to the spirit of freedom and independence that was represented in the nation's founding in the 1770s.

Special music was presented by Art Peters, associate pastor of Scott Memorial Baptist Church, who sang The Lord's Prayer and How Great Thou Art. The Heartland Youth for Decade Singers presented a program of "The Freedom Sounds."

Dick Nolan Assembly bid opens

Dick Nolan, an Ocean Beach businessman, launched his campaign for election to the Assembly in the 78th District Saturday night at a fund-raising dinner conducted in the Franklin Building.

In key statements Nolan, a Democrat, announced Project 78, his plan for capturing the Assembly office, and his support for lowering the voting age to 18.

More than one hundred Nolan supporters attended the affair. Flamenco music, dancing and a spaghetti dinner provided by Poma's Italian Delicatessen were featured.

Nolan stated his Project 78 would be aimed at getting people active in the 78th District. "I'm concerned that people recognize the importance of this district," he said. "Emphasis will be on people-to-people chain referrals."

Woman, cat die in home fire

An autopsy is to be performed to determine the cause of death of an Ocean Beach woman found dead in her home after firemen were called to the scene early Saturday morning and extinguished a fire in the living room.

Found dead on the floor of her studio apartment was Mrs. Doris Baker of 4750 West Point Loma Boulevard. Firemen said a large Persian cat was also found dead in the apartment.

Firemen said the blaze was confined to the couch, which Mrs. Baker used as a bed. Cause of the fire was believed to be a smoldering cigarette.

Children to speak minds at PTA meet

"Seeing the World Through Children's Eyes" will be the theme when students present the program at Sunset View Elementary School PTA meeting Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the school auditorium, 4365 Hill St., Ocean Beach.

According to program chairman Mrs. Robert D. Horwitz, "Every child at Sunset View, from first grade up, has been invited to participate in the program by expressing his feelings about himself and the world in which he lives."

The task will be accomplished through art work, essays, poetry and performances, Mrs. Horwitz explained. Children have been asked to "do their own thing" without the help of parents or teachers. The purpose of each contribution is to show thoughts and feelings, not talent or ability, she said.

The Rev. Mikel Taxer, pastor of Westminster Presbyterian Church in Loma Portal, is to lead a panel discussion by Sunset View students and alumni. Those participating in the discussion will include Mary Decker and Mike De Good, both sixth graders at Sunset View; Kathy Adams, a ninth grader at Dana Junior High; Cindy Laddan, a sophomore, and Jim Hair, a senior, both of Point Loma High, and Lucille Anderson, a senior at Bishop's School, Mrs. Horwitz said.

Members of Westminster Presbyterian Church plan to present a skit entitled "Who's Listening?" by Fred Whitmore. The cast includes Whitmore, Maralee Perkin and Point Loma High School students Kim Terp and David Landis.

Girl Scout Troop No. 45, under the leadership of Mrs. Albert I. Decker, will present the colors and first grade parents will be hosts, Mrs. Horwitz said. She invited the public to attend.

Chamber to hear what bay center is doing

Ray Stone, account executive of the Mission Bay Visitor Information Center, has been scheduled to address the Peninsula Chamber of Commerce Monday.

Chamber general manager Ramona Peterson said Stone will relay to members and guests what the center is doing to promote tourism and business in the San Diego area. The talk is scheduled at the 7:30 p.m. meeting in Charlie Brown's Windjammer, 2265 Bacon St., Ocean Beach. Mrs. Peterson also indicated Stone may offer suggestions as to how the chamber can obtain freeway signs to direct motorists to the Point Loma area.

Contestants for the Miss Peninsula contest are still needed, Mrs. Peterson reported. She said applications for the pageant, to be held May 17 at the Bali Hai restaurant on Shelter Island, are available at 1352 Sunset Cliffs Blvd., Point Loma, or at 2294 Bacon St., Ocean Beach. Further information on the contest is available by calling Mrs. Peterson at 223-9767 or by telephoning contest director Wendy Reynolds at 224-1611.

Surgical equipment stolen

Prowlers broke into a parked car owned by a Peninsula doctor this week and fled with 25 surgical instruments worth $1,030, police reported. The instruments belonged to Dr. George Jackson, 3050 Rue D'Orleans.

Mrs. Mary Paul, 4224 Coronado Ave., was the victim of another Peninsula burglary, losing personal possessions valued at $340.

Thieves gained entry to her home via the rear door and took a $175 tape recorder, $120 record player and two speakers with a combined value of $45. They also took a $140 portable television set, but left it in the back yard.

Course on art galleries slated

If you are planning a vacation in Europe soon you are probably planning to visit many art galleries and cathedrals while you are there.

A course now being offered at Midway Adult Day School, 3249 Fordham St., in art history and appreciation will discuss the main art galleries in Europe, starting with Greece, Italy and France and their major art works and will show students how to enjoy and appreciate the cathedrals.

Pioneer Church is center for relief donations

Pioneer United Church, 4905 Jellet St., Clairemont, is serving this week as a collection center in the current Ecumenical Conference program to gather clothing, shoes and blankets in support of the Church World Service program. Church World Service, which processes the goods in Modesto, distributes the material for domestic and overseas relief.

Salk Institute receives $250,000 Mellon gift

The Salk Institute has received a grant of $250,000 from the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation of New York City to provide new facilities and equipment for the institute's current expansion into new research areas.

"The Mellon Foundation grant comes at a time when our expansion into the fields of reproductive biology and the neurosciences will require additional laboratory activation and outfitting," said Joseph E. Slater, institute president.

"We feel that the pace of present and future research in these important fields has been greatly assisted by the significant grant which the Mellon Foundation has provided."

The new reproductive biology program was announced by the institute a few weeks ago, along with the appointment of Dr. Roger Guillemin, noted endocrinologist from Baylor College of Medicine as resident fellow, according to Slater.

"Dr. Guillemin will work on chemical factors in the brain which regulate hormone production in the male and female reproductive organs and control other important body functions," he explained.

Students hear United Nations representative

Donald F. Keys, the United Nations representative for the World Association of World Federalists, spoke to several student groups on a new formula for the reorganization of the U.N.

Keys lectured Wednesday and Thursday at San Diego State College, University of San Diego Law School and Revelle College. He explained a proposal for an eventual federation of nations under the United Nations, in which the U.N. would have the authority for maintaining the peace through the management of worldwide problems.

JOBS TO MATCH SAN DIEGO'S POTENTIAL

MDC trains manpower for future

WILLIAM GOLDSTEIN
A future that fits San Diego's

The unemployed need jobs immediately, so job training programs usually target immediate job markets.

Planning for a long-range future is a luxury, but it's one that San Diego's Manpower Development Center of the Economic Opportunity Commission proposes to buy with the same funds it would use to purchase any old job in a hurry.

INTENSIVE TRAINING Units are training the unemployed and underemployed for clerical work—and that's not new. It's a high demand now. And projections show, it will be later.

But something else is new. The other two units are preparing San Diego workers for marine outfitting and the paramedical professions—the two areas labor analysts say will take up the defense contract slack and demilitarization in this county.

MDC's new director is 37-year-old William I. Goldstein, of Ocean Beach, a native of Troy, N.Y. with a BS degree in psychology. He says he was delighted to take the EOC position, when he learned that planners here had used such foresight.

He said it was also apparent to him that the MDC staff of eight (he's ninth) has already built up a good rapport with the client population it serves.

He said the program with its present 300 trainees is client oriented, and that by serving the client—the job trainee or job seeker—the program can best serve the larger community.

"The more we put into jobs, the more tax dollars are saved," he said. He said the EOC job team serves a double benefit by referring qualified persons to jobs and guaranteeing that referrals come from the poverty community.

"Some are on welfare, tax consumers. With employment, they become tax payers," Goldstein said.

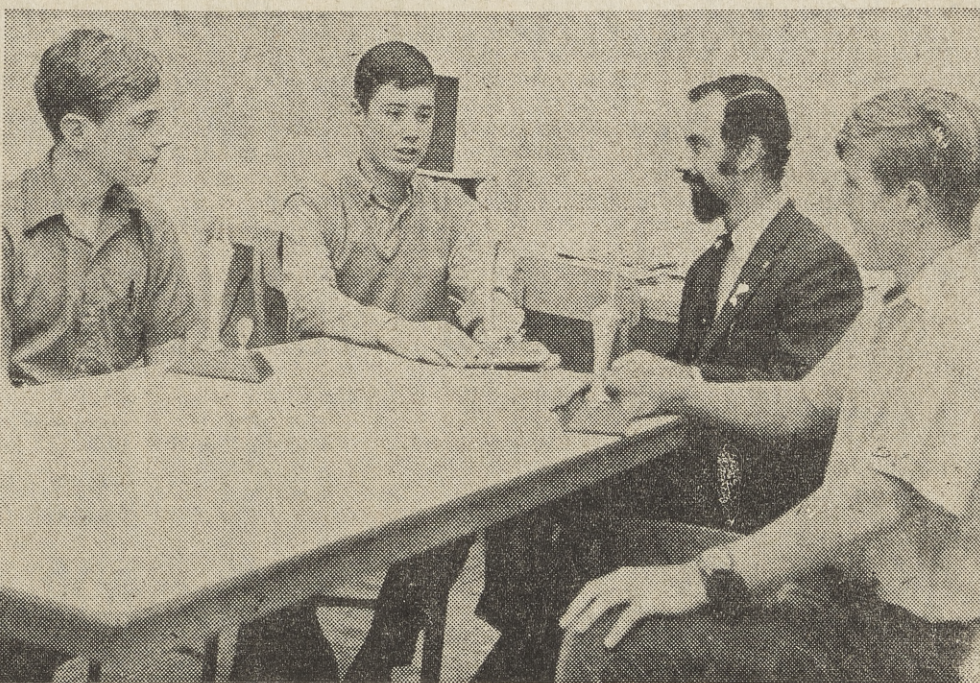

THE TEAM SCREENS applicants for abilities and capabilities, and for needs they have—then tries to fill

"We place a top priority on seeing that once we put a man on a job he stays there. We provide follow-up, and troubleshooting where that's necessary."

Goldstein says he sees the job of Manpower Development Center as putting into a useable package not only its own training funds, but also those of 60 other operating agencies "such as National Alliance of Businessmen, Human Resources Development and the Mayor's Committee on Employment."

"In the same package are the 180 different supportive services, ranging from child care to health care to legal aid."

OPTIMIST ORATORS

ART BUCHWALD*Silent disc sales zoom

By ART BUCHWALD

A friend of mine named Bill Rabe, who lives in Saulte Ste. Marie, Mich., heads a very successful phonograph company called Hush. Where Rabe's company differs with others is that the Hush label specializes in the recording of silent records. Realizing that as other companies raised the decibels of their records there would be a great market for silence, Rabe has been successfully recording silent records under the Hush label since 1960.

His first golden record, which sold more than a million copies, was "Calvin Coolidge Speaks," which had on the other side of the label

"More of Greta Garbo." Rabe followed up this silent LP with "Wall Street Cheering Herbert Hoover After the Stock Market Crash."

EVERY YEAR, RABE HAS put out three or four silent records that have been played and appreciated by Americans all over this country.

This year, Rabe has just issued a new release that could be the biggest hit Hush records ever had. It is titled "The Silent Majority" and has been recorded on LP as well as tape. Rabe and his brilliant staff of sound engineers traveled all over the country to get the exact silence necessary for each cut on the label. "The Silent Majority" is not only an electronic marvel, but an inspirational triumph as well. It could, with the proper playing by disk jockeys, become the biggest seller since "My Fair Lady."

I spoke to Rabe by telephone and he told me that Hush label was working day and night to meet the orders.

"I believe our timing was perfect. The Silent Majority wanted to hear themselves on records, and if I must say so myself, the silence on this particular record is deafening."

"WHERE DID YOU RECORD 'The Silent Majority'?" I asked him.

"We went everywhere, but we still found the best quality of silence to be in Washington, D.C. For example, the first cut on the record is titled 'The State Department Explaining Our Commitment in Laos.' It's a silent triumph."

"We also recorded 'Civil Rights Leaders Listening to a Speech by Spiro Agnew,' 'The Pentagon at the Senate Defending Lockheed Overruns' and 'Strom Thurmond's Attack on the People Who Overturned the School Buses in Lamar, S.C.'"

"You certainly got some great silence there," I said.

"That isn't the half of it," Rabe said. "We recorded Atty. Gen. Mitchell when he was told his wife had just appeared on CBS television."

"But he was speechless."

"Exactly. We got it all on the record, as well as three minutes of 'The Wit and Warmth of Martha Mitchell.'"

"What other silences did you record?"

"We believe we got a wonderful cut of Lawrence O'Brien when he was told the Democratic Party owed $9 million, but we could never get Hubert Humphrey to stay quiet long enough to record him. So we eliminated him from the record."

"DID YOU RECORD DANIEL MOYNIHAN's reaction when reporters told him that his phrase urging the President to use 'benign neglect' in dealing with the blacks had been made public?"

"No, we passed that one up, though we did record President Nixon alone in the Oval Room trying to decide whether Texas or Penn State had the No. 1 football team in the country."

Rabe said he was proudest of the last part of his record. He said he recorded 5,000 members of the Silent Majority shaking their heads while watching Huntley and Brinkley on television.

South gate of Torrey Pines shut

The closing of the south entrance at Torrey Pines State Reserve was announced this week by William Penn Mott Jr., director of the California Department of Parks and Recreation.

Mott said the closing of the south entrance will require all who enter and leave the park to do so at the north entrance. "This will enable us to give better protection to the rare and irreplaceable Torrey Pine groves through more adequate control over vandalism and improper use and overuse of the area."

Only a month ago, Mott said, the Park and Recreation Commission established two natural preserves at Torrey Pines, one a portion of the upland area containing the finest stands of Torrey Pines and the other lowland marsh (excluding the heavily used beach areas).

WESTERN HONOR SQUAD

Hawk's D named be

Madison's Dave Smith scored 776 points to earn second place, behind Helix High's 7-foot county scoring list. Smith was honored through the Western League and anchor of the squad.

Rich Hastings, 6-6 center, joins Warhawk teammate Smith on the All-Western League's first team along with Jack McMahon Jr., and Steve Babick of University and Steve Higgins of La Jolla.

Smith, 6-4 forward, posted a 26.8 per game scoring average to earn fifth place on the all-time county list. The Hawks averaged 67.9 points per contest on the way to a 19-10 mark and a tie for first place in the Western League with University, each posting a league mark of 10-2.

Hastings, the only junior selected to the first team of the honor squad, proved extremely tough on the boards giving the Warhawks ball control and the chance to play their style game.

Higgins, 6-3 forward, who also stars on the Vikings baseball team, knocked in 667 points on year for a 25.7 per game average to earn seventh place on the county all-time season average list. He was the principal reason La Jolla flew to a 69.7 per game average taking fifth place on the county team list.

University's back court duo of Steve Babick and Jack McMahon earned their first team selection in a classic match-up. Babick is a fine passer and shooter, with the ability to hit from outside. He scored 205 points in league competition including 18 in Uni's playoff loss to Castle Park.

McMahon comes by his play-making and ball handling honestly. His dad, Ole Jack, starred some 100 years in the pro wars as a player and coach. He coached the San Diego Rockets to the NBA playoffs.

VENERABLE AL Lewis, an old warhorse along the sidelines, has accepted the head mantle of the team as needs made vacant by the loss of Bill Hall to the pros.

The post was offered to him at the time Hall made his announcement of retirement but delayed in the cause of personal matters.

LEWIS, AL, a mentor at Cal State University (now San Diego State International) is a veteran of the game in Los Angeles. He goes, is doing the work to earn a doctorate.

least 10 years.

William Gerhardt, special projects director in the city manager's office, said City Manager Walter Hahn requested the council to return the proposal because "no conclusions have been made at the county level."

Asked whether the proposed agreement would be on the council agenda again soon, Gerhardt replied: "That all depends on the Ad hoc Committee's recommendations."

That throws the ball to county.

TWO SUPERVISORS HAVE

publicly denounced the proposed subsidy. Board chair-

Henry Boney has called proposal "unfair to the yers."

Supervisor De Graff Aus-

has termed the agree-

a "giveaway" and said

es not intend to "rubump" the proposal.

Supervisors have sched-

their continued confer-

the proposal for 8:30

Monday, expecting the Committee to make ndations.

County holds the ball.
